First Philadelphia Branch

A THREE-STORY BUILDING is being constructed by Lit Brothers department store of Philadelphia, the first branch within city limits to be built by a large Philadelphia store. The inside of the store, located at Castor and Cottman streets, is shown above as it nears completion. It will open in February.

Lit Brothers To Pay Tribute To All Valley

When Lit Brothers opens its new branch, a complete department store, in Northeast Philadelphia in February, 1954, it will pay special tribute to Delaware Valley, U. S. A., the fastest growing industrial area in the United States. This is the statement of Harold W. Brightman, Lit's president.

The store's beautiful, modern restaurant, on the lower level, will be called the "Delaware Valley Room." Its walls will be decorated with three original murals. Special ceremonies will be held, in connection with its dedication, saluting "Industrial Delaware Valley, U. S. A.," "Historical Delaware Valley, U. S. A." and "Cultural Delaware Valley, U. S. A." These paintings will be especially created by the well-known Philadelphia artist, Willare Borow.

The opening of the new Castor & Cottman Store, with its domination of rapidly growing Northeast Philadelphia, plus segments of Montgomery and Bucks County will in fact give Lit Brothers a virtual encirclement of the vast Delaware Valley area.

Blankets Area

With its large 8th & Market street store as the hub, Lit Brothers 6th street store in Upper Darby now covers West Philadelphia and all Delaware County. All central New Jersey is covered by a Lit 4 other "wrens" department store in Trenton. In the near future South Jersey, particularly Burlington, Camden and Gloucester counties, will be covered with the building of Lit Brother-Camden on the site of the old court house.

The store in the Northeast was first conceived by the Lit Brothers management more than five years ago.

"We could see that the future growth of Philadelphia must be largely in that area," Brightman said. "We made extensive surveys to determine just how great the growth would be. Needless to say, with the advent of the huge United States Steel plant along the Delaware just a few miles northeast of Philadelphia, our early estimates have had to be greatly expanded."

500,000 Potential

According to present estimates, Lit-Northeast will draw from an area including more than 500,000 potential customers. Sufficient to support an annual volume of many millions. By 1960 it is estimated that Lit-Northeast will draw from a customer potential of over 600,000 people.

A quick study of the size of "The Great Northeast" alone brings to light an astounding picture. In the Northeast are the 23rd, 35th and 51st wards alone cover 43 square miles, larger in area than a combination of Miami, Columbus, Dallas, Milwaukee and Allentown-Bethlehem or larger than Reading, Scranton, Wilkes-Barre and Williamsport combined. In fact, the 35th ward alone is larger than the island of Manhattan.

Pacing The Labor Beat

With The Labor Editor

News of local unions and their members will be welcomed by the 'COURIER. Address all communications to the Labor Editor, The BRISTOL COURIER, Bristol, Penna.

President Judge Hiram H. Keller of the Bucks County Court granted a preliminary injunction yesterday against the United Steelworkers Local 4873 CIO, now engaged in its fourth week of strike against the Murlin Manufacturing Company of Quakertown.

The action was taken after striking workers of the firm attempted to prevent office help from entering the building last Tuesday. The firm employs about 35 workers.

Quakertown Police Chief Newton B. Rapp said picketing at the plant had been peaceful and that his men were not summoned to the strike scene until the firm protested interference with office personnel.

The chief said there were no reports of disturbances today. He said the dispute appeared to be over wages, sick benefits and vacations.

George Meany, AFL president, yesterday resigned as an adviser of the Foreign Operations Administration charging that its labor program has been scuttled.

In a letter to Harold Stassen, head of the FOA, Meany complained that labor union representatives in FOA's offices here and abroad had been fired and that the FOA was failing to aid labor organizations abroad.

Meany said that although he accepted membership on the FOA advisory board last March, no meetings were held until eight days ago.

He also pointed out that Congress in dealing with the Mutual Security Program declared it to be the policy of the United States to "encourage the efforts of other free countries in the strengthening of free labor unions."

Meany said he felt he could not continue serving as FOA adviser "so long as the vital role of labor in the defense of the free world against Communism is being ignored by the agency entrusted with the task of mutual defense."

United Electrical Workers (Independent) at Lynn, Mass., yesterday lost a battle to win bargaining rights for some 12,000 General Electric Company production employees from the International Union of Electrical Workers (CIO).

A National Labor Relations Board regional commissioner said the workers at GE's Lynn and Everett plants voted 5546 for the CIO union and 4806 for the Independent group.

The Independent union was ousted from the CIO in 1949.

when it was accused of Communist domination.

In Schenectady, N. Y., Leo Jandreau, business agent of Local 301 of the independent union, which represents some 15,000 employees at GE's home plant, said GE's new policy of firing Communists is un-American and anti-labor.

The three-week-old state-wide strike by 1800 gas workers against the Public Service Electric and Gas Company of New Jersey may end today if the utility firm accepts arbitration proposals made yesterday by the State Mediation Board. The union accepted the recommendation in principle.

Six Trenton area labor leaders were named to the 35-member New Jersey State CIO Council executive board. It was announced by Carl Holderman, council president.

They are: Louis Persico, of 660 South Olden avenue, Trenton, Local 731, UAW; Joseph Sokolowski, of Lawrence Township, International Union of Electrical Workers, Local 455; John McClaskey, of Roeboling USW, Local 2110; John Lally, of 2124 Liberty street, Trenton, United Rubber Workers, Local 107; and Frank Stiles, of 46 Winder avenue, Trenton, Communications Workers, Local 1000.

John Henry Barrell, of Trenton, of the United Steel Workers, was named one of the eight council vice-presidents.

The Studebaker Corporation and the CIO United Auto Workers Local at South Bend, Ind., were charged by the government with violating the Taft-Hartley Law by requiring union members to own Studebakers.

George J. Bott, general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board, charged that this is an unfair labor practice. The government's complaint said the company discriminated against 15 employees at the request of the union because they refused to buy Studebakers.

The 15 employees, all union members, were discharged, laid off or suspended between July 2 and Sept. 8. Four were reinstated after they gave in and bought Studebakers, the complaint said.

A Quick Look: In elections at Philadelphia Local 470, International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL), Peter Schultz and Thomas McDonnell were re-elected president and secretary-treasurer respectively. . . AFL General Teamsters, Local 249, and Horne's Department Store, in Pittsburgh, reached a consent agreement which reduces the number of pickets to four at the struck store's employee entrance and six at other entrances, while the store withdraws its petition for an injunction. Conferences between union and management are underway with Judge Walter P. Smart.

The CIO got an okay from the Federal Communications Commission for its first $1,000,000 TV station in Detroit.

VFW Post Plans Christmas Party For Next Sunday

Big plans are being made by Chester W. Terchon Post, No. 5542, Veterans of Foreign Wars, for the annual Christmas party for kids. The site for the event at two p. m. Sunday, will be 5th Ward Sporting Club, Wood street, near Taylor street.

Four hundred children of post and auxiliary members are expected.

There will be Christmas films, a Punch and Judy act, and musical clown act. Santa Claus will present each child with a gift and candy.

Those members who did not return cards for the party are asked to be present early in order to arrange for names of their children to be placed on Santa's list.

The post plans a New Year's Eve party, Dec. 31, in the post home on Franklin street. Those desiring to make reservations are asked to do so by Dec. 21, calling either Henry R. Korstedt, president of the post, Frank Kowal or William Walp.

Proper Time to Train A Child

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

IN a state university's weekly bulletin, sent to parents of that state, the following paragraph appeared:

"In studies of children's toilet habits, it appears that the average child three years old does well enough without previous intensive training. The child whose mother begins to annoy him with training at six months of age often becomes resistant and hard to train."

The Proper Age

The assumption seems to be that any mother, beginning to train her baby at six months, will surely annoy him. It is reasonable to suppose that almost any child at three whose mother made no special effort at training him in toilet habits would usually choose by then to keep neat and dry by day. But meanwhile, how many thousands of soiled diapers his mother must have changed and washed. How often during this time, her aesthetic sense and that of other persons in the family may have been wounded. This child himself may not have acquired much zeal for personal cleanliness.

There can hardly be much doubt that the recent urging by numerous experts not to begin toilet training before the second year, or even later, has removed from many mothers and babies a vast deal of needless vexations. When, several decades ago, the emphasis was on very early training of the infant, even in his early months, success became a kind of social distinction among young mothers, and less successful mothers tended to condemn themselves for their supposed failures. In turn, their own inner turmoil over the matter often rendered them less successful in further training.

The Opposite Extreme

But I think the pendulum has swung too far the other way. The criterion in such training is how well the mother can manage herself in regard to training the infant, and how consistently she can carry it on without annoyance to herself and the baby.

We all know mothers who are so calm and poised and so able to win the baby's cooperation, and hold themselves to a schedule in his training, that they have achieved almost perfect results in the baby's first year.

Consider Resources

After her baby's birth, each young mother should soon decide for herself when she is going to begin systematic toilet training of this baby. She should consider her own personal resources for earlier or later successes, putting the emotional factors first. In case she has started during the first year and finds she is unable to hold herself to a regimen, becomes angry when the infant doesn't cooperate and is upset over some failures, she would then do well to give up the training and resume it later.

But there are so many young mothers able to accomplish good toilet training in these babies before two years of age, and without undue annoyance to themselves or their infants, that this early undertaking and achievement should not be discouraged or belittled. Indeed, it might be well for more experts and mothers to ascertain how these mothers have done it. (My bulletin "Toilet Training" may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.)

Jersey Assembly To Air Delaware River Diversion

TRENTON, N. J.—(INS) — Control of potable waters in the upper Delaware River will be subject of a public hearing by the joint Senate and Assembly Committees on water supply at 10 a. m. on Tuesday in the assembly chamber at the State House.

The measure to be discussed was introduced jointly by Senators Alfred B. Little, Sussex; Bruce A. Wallace, Camden, and W. Steelman Mathis, Ocean, all Republicans.

It is designed to settle litigation started by New York City and state in the United States Supreme Court to secure permission to divert an additional 400,000,000 gallons of water per day from the upper Delaware River to use by New York City.

New Jersey legislators seek passage of the measure in order to save approximately $2,000,000 which is estimated as the cost of providing experts and counsel to fight the diversion case.

The proposed law also removes present legal obstacles to the erection of reservoirs by the state of Pennsylvania on the channel of the Delaware River, and provides for New Jersey to exercise eminent domain in behalf of Pennsylvania to obtain the land necessary for construction of the dams.

Take Care of That Cold Is Warning

By DR. JAMES N. ROEBUCK

Colds are more prevalent than usual this year. Don't consider them lightly if not watched carefully a seemingly mild cold progresses into influenza, pneumonia, infection of the ears, sinuses and other organs. To aid in the prevention of colds, keep your feet and neck warm, especially next to the hair line. Do not deviate from your regular routine of diet, and everyday habits.

The cause of colds has been said to be lowered resistance. The science of Chiropractic goes further and determines the cause of lowered resistance. If you are subject to colds, have one that you can't get rid of, or have any of the after effects, a Chiropractic analysis will reveal the true cause. When the cause is removed by Chiropractic methods, nature will be able to build you back to a normal state of health.

This is the thirty-fourth of a series of Chiropractic educational advertisements appearing in this paper each Thursday through the courtesy of Dr. James N. Roebuck, Chiropractor, 1806 Fargut Avenue, Bristol, Pa.

WASHINGTON REPORT

By Fulton Lewis, Jr.
(Copyright 1953,
King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Efforts of Fair Dealers and left-wingers to promote a pitched battle between the Eisenhower administration and Senator Joseph R. McCarthy are not meeting with much success.

One of the biggest reasons is that the Senator is carefully avoiding any such open break as his opponents seek. He frankly states his disagreement with some points of administration policy, but he could not with any sincerity do less.

The pinko-Democratic school of commentators is trying to build up McCarthy as a bogey-man who seeks to challenge President Eisenhower's leadership now so that he, McCarthy, can run for the Presidency in 1956.

But unbiased observers who are familiar with McCarthy and the way he operates place no credence whatsoever in that idea. They believe he is sincere and honest when he said on a recent TV panel program that he had "no desire" to run for President and that he saw "no possibility" of ever being nominated.

However, he has a deep conviction that many persons still occupying high government positions constitute security risks and should not be in those positions. He also feels we should do more in the way of tying persuasive strings on our aid to certain nations which allegedly are on our side in the cold war but which appear to be playing both sides of the street.

For McCarthy to say he agrees with the administration on these points would be dishonest. That he has no intention of doing. For this, millions of Americans will say "Amen," for they believe he is in the right.

The campaign to create the "big break" has mushroomed by either design or coincidence. The pro-Democratic "liberal" commentators previously had tried to build up anti-administration campaigns by attacking what they thought might be vulnerable points, such as Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson and the golfing vacations of the President himself.

None of these earlier campaigns achieved any major success, so now they apparently have decided to try the McCarthy angle. Happily, this one doesn't seem to be working, either.

Strongest of the current anti-McCarthy campaigners, of course, is the Communist Daily Worker, although fortunately its words are not read by many persons. This is an excerpt from a typical Daily Worker editorial, published early this week:

"McCarthy figures that he can push the White House around because the White House is also following the anti-American line of refusing to end the cold war by negotiations. McCarthy is fronting for a dangerous mob of more-war conspirators inside the U. S. A. It is up to every American to meet his crude challenge by sending wires and letters to the White House urging Eisenhower to spurn McCarthy's insolent demands."

To many Americans the Daily Worker's use of such language would of itself almost make McCarthy right.

The left-wing New Republic, which loudly proclaims its anti-Communism but strangely follows the same line as the Commies in case after case, long has been attacking the administration in each weekly issue for not taking on McCarthy. Its pet hate seems to be Scott McLeod, State Department Security and Personnel Director, who also is attacked weekly as a McCarthy man. The New Republic disapproves of security checks such as McLeod and McCarthy advocate.

The usual clique of "bleeding heart" columnists has joined full force in the effort to promote an Eisenhower-McCarthy break. Even the widely respected but somewhat leftist Joseph C. Harsh, Washington columnist for the Christian Science Monitor, recently has been picturing President Eisenhower as facing an enforced choice between the Gov. Dewey and the Col. McCormick-Joe McCarthy schools.

The country will be much better off if the saner heads around Mr. Eisenhower prevail and he makes the same serious effort to avoid a schism within Republican ranks as has the Senator.

Place Names In Bucks County

Middletown Township

In central southern Bucks county, bounded northwest by Newtown township, northeast by Lower Makefield, Falls and Bristol townships, southeast by Bristol township, southwest by Bensalem and Northampton townships.

Its boundaries are quite irregular, due to the winding course of Neshaminy Creek, which forms its southwest line and to broken lines on the northeast boundary.

The township is the last named in the Court jury's report of 1692, referred to therein as "the middle township called Middletown." At that time it was central in the settled part of Bucks county. Prior to 1703 it was known as Middle Lots and as late as 1714 as Middle Township.

English Friends settled in Middletown before Penn came and others arrived with him on the ship Welcome. Some of them were Nicholas Wain, Richard Amor, Henry Paxson, Stephen Sands, James Dilworth, John Scarborough, Richard Davis, Robert Hall, Robert Heaton, George White, Thomas Atkinson and Thomas Croasdale.

In fact, before 1700 the township was well settled, but some of the pioneers and elder members of their families soon migrated to other parts of this and Philadelphia County.

A Friends' Meeting was organized very early. Samuel Smith, the Friends' historian, says "Meetings for worship were first settled at Neshaminy in 1682, and held at the houses of Nicholas Wain, John Otter, and Robert Hall, till 1690, when their first meeting house was built." This house stood on the bank of Neshaminy Creek a mile west of Langhorne. The next site was on Maple avenue, Langhorne, where three houses have been built since 1734, the last in 1789. The meeting when first organized being held "about Neshaminy," was called "Neshaminy Meeting." It was first mentioned as Middletown Meeting in 1706, and so continues.

The Friends also established a school. One of its teachers as early as 1732 was William Atherton. It had as many as 80 enrolled pupils at one time and was considered the best school of that day in the county.

General Jacob Rown was a pupil and for a year one of its teachers. Seth Chapman, afterwards a judge of the Courts of Lycoming County, Pa., was also a pupil.

Middletown has always been thickly settled territory.

Four boroughs erected from its territory have reduced its area considerably. Its agricultural interests, always important, are closely looked after by Middletown Grange, Patrons of Husbandry.

Meat Production Still Remains Up

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The Agriculture Department reported today that meat production is continuing at an accelerated pace, although it has declined from the peak attained a few weeks ago.

During the week ending Dec. 5, cattle slaughter totaled 412,000 head, an increase of 36 per cent above the corresponding period of 1952.

In the same week, one million 280 thousand hogs went to slaughter. This was an increase of 17 per cent from the previous week, but a decline of 28 per cent below the corresponding period of 1952.

COP DOES GIRLS A FAVOR; EXPLAINS ALONG WITH IT

MILWAUKEE — Three teen-age girls asked Milwaukee policeman Percy Frank how to work a fire alarm box.

He obliged, but didn't touch the levers.

One of the girls said, "Oh, like this?"

The officer nodded. "Perfect," he said.

Then eight pieces of fire equipment raced to the scene.

The red-faced officer told the firemen:

"I was just explaining . . ."

Dusting Off The News

By CHARLES O. MOLZ

Tullytown wants more spare change from the state, so it is getting ready for a special census. Will everyone please hold up his hands and then reach right into the state's pocket?

The Paterson paper company will pass out a Christmas bonus of a week's pay, which proves of course that Santa Claus doesn't always come down the chimney.

The Lions Club distributed the new trash cans around Bristol Borough just in time to catch some of the dirty books as the police wagon went by.

Lazy Louie says that when you go blinking along Mill street at night it is just like walking up Broadway in New York, except there are no flea circuses—and, goodness knows, fleas are hard to catch this time of year.

The plan of the Windsor Kennel Club to hunt lost dogs should save some effort on the part of people who would be going out to call, "Here, Towser, here Towser!" But wait . . . nobody ever names a dog Towser any more.

We don't blame the Trevese parents who didn't want their children's report cards to show up with the letters G, E, L, U. Put Nov. 20.

them together and they sound like bad words to us.

A Fallsington youngster came up with the suggestion that they "plant more grass" as his offering to the Pennsylvania school celebration. This may easily go down in history along with "Let them eat cake" and "Don't shoot until you see the whites of their eyes." What a chance was missed to ask for free ice cream cones twice a day!

Enrollment Rises In U. S. Colleges

WASHINGTON—(INS) — U. S. Commissioner of Education Samuel M. Brownell reported that college and university enrollment in the fall of 1953 increased 4.8 per cent over last year.

Brownell said a survey of 1,871 institutions, including those in Alaska, Guam, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia, showed a total enrollment of 2,250,701, compared with 2,148,284 in 1952.

Brownell attributed the rise to an all-time peak of high school graduates in 1953, plus educational benefit for veterans and greater emphasis on college training.

Garments Total Thousands For One Who 'Loves to Sew'

By Elma E. Haefner

A West Bristol mother and grandmother has been "in stitches" most of her life—sewing-wise we mean. Because — dresses, undergarments, coats and suits for five daughters of Mrs. George White from their baby-hood to marriage, plus dresses and sport and dress shirts for 13 grandchildren mount in 35 years to a few thousand garments and possibly millions of stitches.

"I just love to sew" is the way she expresses it, then as if to give emphasis to enjoyment of her hobby, she attempted to explain further, but ended up by saying "I just get a kick out of it."

For some women life begins to feel a little "empty" once the children have grown and launched out into the world. Not so with Mrs. White, who with her husband resides on Sixth avenue, just off Broadway, West Bristol. She had plied her needle from the time she first learned to sew to become a mother, making a complete layette for the first child. It proved to be a girl. Dainty little dresses took shape as the daughter grew, and it became second nature for Mrs. White to make any and all required articles of clothing. Another girl arrived, and another, until there were five daughters. The Whites felt they had something in common with the Eddie Cantors.

From the time the first baby arrived 39 years ago, until the last girl was married and set up house, keeping four years ago, Mrs. White had a hey-day nearly everyday with her sewing machine, her needles and thread. Several years ago grandchildren commenced arriving, and today they number 13. "I don't make all their clothing, but I do have a dress for each girl, and a shirt for each boy, when Christmas, Easter and birthday anniversaries, roll around" the resident of the township comments.

If you don't believe that clothing for five daughters can total in the thousands, just remember that for Mrs. White there were no half-way measures. It meant dresses, coats, suits, scarfs, under-clothing, jackets, not to mention occasional "tams" or skull caps to match the coats, and mitts of flannel when the kiddies were small.

Once the grandchildren started putting in their appearance there were complete layettes ready. But with boys entering the picture, it meant venturing occasionally into the line of trousers, overcoats, shirts and the like.

In the hope that the little granddaughters are too young to read we'll let the public in on a secret — "sister" dresses on miniature hangers dot the White residence, quite "Frenchy" in pink and blue.

The five daughters are fairly well scattered now, but boxes from home usually bring reminiscences of girlhood, for each is bound to contain among other things a dress or two for someone in the family. Mrs. William Cantner, who is farthest from home, is residing at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; Mrs. Martin Fullerton at Dubois; Mrs. James Blanche makes her home on Bath road; while Mrs. William Strumfeld and Mrs. Francis Crum are residing in Winder Village.

The Whites have, ever since their marriage, enjoyed working together. The main common interest, of course, was their bungalow. With six comfortable rooms and bath, the Whites built it "from the ground up," 29 years ago. All masonry work, carpentry, plumbing and electric work were done by Mr. and Mrs. White. When asked "How long did it take?" Mrs. White laughingly replied "We're still at it." Which isn't quite true, for the house has for a long time had a very "finished" look. Gay colors, in good taste, are used on the interior; with the draperies, pillows, and bedspreads naturally being the results of hours spent by Mrs. White in her sewing nook.

To further enhance the windows where draperies by Mrs. White are hung, Mr. White made wooden valances.

The visitor's eye is attracted to colorful scenes on one wall of the living-room. Beauty spots from all parts of the United States are set off by picture frames, in a variety of woods, all from Mr. White's workshop. "They help us re-live our trips" is the way Mrs. White puts it. "We take moving pictures when we travel, and then on an occasional evening at home my husband suggests 'Let's take a trip' and we set up the screen."

Each winter they dream of the trip for the following summer. Twice they have been to the west coast, one of these jaunts taking them to Oregon, another to California; a third western trip was to the Rocky mountains. Three times have they been to Canada; and on three or four occasions to New England. Twice the family car was driven to southern states. "When the girls were single we always took them along" the mother explains. During the past summer, Mr. and Mrs. White took advantage of their "sleeperette" automobile while enroute to Oregon, and at times cooked their meals over a camp fire.

To attest to the fact that Mr. White has a busy pre-Christmas season—there are three little red stools complete with names of grandchildren in white paint, and Teddy Bear "decals." Mr. White is employed as a supervisor at the Philco Corp. plant in Crofton.

Today's Quiet Moment

John L. Palmer, Pastor Bible Presbyterian Church of Levittown

IS CHRIST CROWDED OUT
"Behold, I stand at the door, and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come into him, and will sup with him, and he with Me." Rev. 3:20. Is Christ crowded out of your busy life with the toiling that each day brings?

with the strain and stress of the cares that press
You've no time for the King of Kings.

"No room in the inn" for the Christ Child blest.
"In a manger so low He lay;"
In the hearts of men o'er and o'er again.

There's no room for Him still today.

"The foxes have holes and the birds have nests
But nowhere for His head to tuck."

Could the Son of man, Should He come again
Find a place in your heart and mine.

The hearts of the ones whom He died to save
Are the home which He seeks today.

By His life bought, yet He is crowded out.
And "away with Him," still they say.

There's coming a day in the great sometime
If for Christ you have never room.

You will knock and wait at the pearly gate, crowded out there will be your doom.

There is no use talking of the power of a religion that does nothing.

The upside-down chronology that has sent glory Phil Attardo into Bristol High basketball ranks after a season of seasoning in the Bristol Industrial League may be all the tonic the Warriors need in their quest for repeat Lower Bucks County League honors.

As the incomparable Red Smith once put it, this switch ranks right alongside Serutan. It is unlikely that any schoolboy in these parts ever had to prove himself in strong independent basketball in order to win his scholastic spurs.

Attardo's case is unusual. The boy moved into Bristol from Brooklyn, N. Y., where he had been a scholastic performer of some stature. However, he came too late to be of much use to the contemporary Warriors and just naturally migrated into the adult fraternity.

There is room for conjecture as to the comparative merits of independent and scholastic basketball. Certainly less stress is placed upon discipline and defense among once-a-week performers, many of whom are over the hump physically. Yet the game customarily is rougher in independent circles, and no picnic ground for any neophyte.

In this sort of competition the agile Attardo did right nicely, thank you. He finished as second best scorer in the loop and was hailed as a brilliant prospect. Opposed by some erstwhile scholastic and college greats, he developed a system of feints, cultured a fadeaway layup that can be set off under heavy guard, and got his jumpshot radar working.

AS A SCHOLASTIC candidate, Attardo was pronounced "a little awkward, but improving," by Coach Ben Watson, whose delight was poorly camouflaged. Against Ewing High Wednesday night in his scholastic debut, Attardo was every bit as awkward as Sonja Heine.

Three distraught Ewings took turns playmating Attardo. One fouled out and another's nerves were so shredded that he was subsequently dismissed for bad manners. The third resourcefully bumped Attardo's posterior each time the warrior hardened the ball and before he could launch a shot. That stratagem was sound. Occasionally Phil missed his free shot.

When all precincts were in, the unsimulating Attardo, who plays the game with a remarkably cool detachment, had bagged 25 points. Only six of his 20 field tries had landed, an evidence of newness. From the foul line he hit 13 times in an uncommon 23 shots. As additional commendation, Attardo's rebounding report card was best among the Warriors, at least two of whom are his physical superior.

The darkly handsome Attardo stands about six to six-foot-one, has a semi-heavy trunk and long, strong legs. As a pivotman, he is a dervish, who requires little freedom in order to escape his defender for easy layups. Occasionally he will leap, spin and pitch a one-hander with good direction. Attardo acquitted himself ably enough in a 2-1-2 zone employed by Watson's men Wednesday night. His defensive attributes will be better judged when Watson decides upon man-for-man deployment. That could happen as early as tonight when the Bristolers are matched with always-strong Trenton Catholic at home.

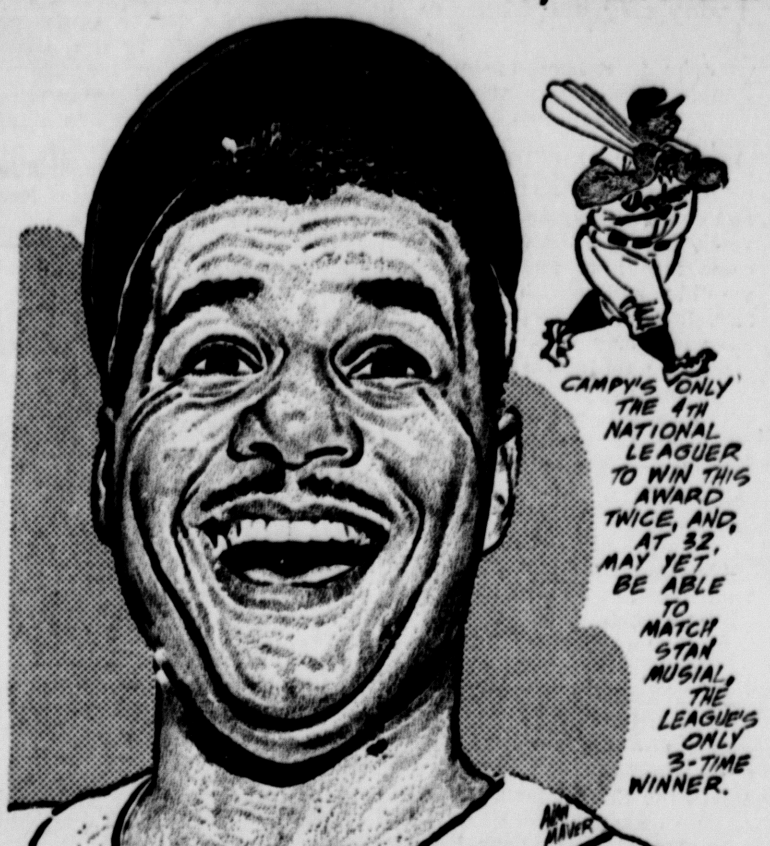

The ATTARDO switch brings to mind another in our time that made an all-state selection out of Norristown High's Joe May. A boy of advanced basketball capacity, but no intellectual giant, May ran out of junior high eligibility before he ran out of class work several years ago. He, too, migrated into a Norristown city league.

A six-foot-ten with lean youth hands and arms that suggested our anthropoid antecedent, May made himself at home with the independents. He learned to give and take with the more bestial of his enemies and cohorts. His shooting skills increased remarkably. By the time he ultimately reached high school, there were few athletes in his balliwick to come with May.

Norristown had a good year and Jackie was superb. He made the all-state team even though his school never reached the district playoffs, usually a prerequisite. At first blush, Attardo is not quite so impressive as May. Yet, with time and attention to the demands of scholastic ball he might be even better. They're from the same school, you see.

White Sox Trade Rogovin, Ryan For Redlegs' Marshall

CINCINNATI — INS — Pitcher Saul Rogovin and infielder Rocky Kranich and Connie Ryan of the Chicago White Sox are in the Cincinnati Redlegs' line today after a trade which sent Redleg outfielder Willard Marshall to the Sox.

Rogovin, an in-and-out performer for the Sox last season, chalked up seven wins and 12 losses. In 1952 the six-foot-plus 200-pounder won 14 while dropping nine. His best effort was in 1951 when he was the American League earned run leader with 2.79 for Detroit and Chicago, while compiling a 12-8 record.

Ran, a long-standing favorite in Cincinnati, where he played in 1950 and 1951 before joining the Philadelphia Phils, broke into the majors in 1943 with the Boston Braves. He batted .296 for the Phils in 1953, and then joined the White Sox, appearing in 17 games and batting .222.

Good Glover

Kranich, who joined the Sox late in the 1952 season, was considered a good glove man but a weak hitter. In 64 games last season he compiled a .202 batting average.

Marshall, who will be 33 in February, appeared in 122 games for the Redlegs last year. In 22 games he appeared as a pinch hitter. He batted a .266 average, hit 17 home runs and drove in 67 runs.

He spent much of his earlier career with the New York Giants.

Wall's 65 Paces Miami Open Golf

MIAMI — INS — Art Wall Jr., of Pocono Manor, Pa., hopes to carry his almost perfect putting display into today's second round of the $10,000 Miami Open Golf tournament.

Wall's putting on the back nine enabled him to capture the first round lead in the tourney Thursday with a five-under-par 65.

He toured the first nine holes in 34, one under par. A total of 23 contestants in the field of 165 bettered par on the 6,750 yard course. Nine others made the regulation 70.

Par shooters included tournament favorite Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., who has captured the Miami Open five times.

BHS Girls Seek Repeat Title

Bearing out the theory that nothing attracts like a winner, some 50 aspiring young ladies have turned out for basketball practice at Bristol High this Winter. This despite the fact that only two members of last years unbeaten, league championship Warriorettes departed with graduation, leaving a tidy nucleus of proven talent to stiffen competition for regular jobs.

Coach Barbara Yerkes, who had had the girls at work for nearly two weeks, was both surprised and pleased by the tremendous turnout, the largest in the school's history.

"Prospects look good for a repeat on last year's record," she said, "if the spirit continues and the girls work for it."

Last year's Warriorettes went undefeated in six Lower Bucks County League games and made it

Zook Bags 44 in R&H Win; Levittown Tops Morrisville

The Lower Bucks County Athletic Conference had a new individual scoring maestro and another formidable challenger for team honors today as a result of last night's two-sided shooting match at Rohm & Haas gym, Bristol.

Walter Zook, long, lean and carrot-topped, snatched the individual brass ring with a 44-point production for Rohm and Haas as he steered his thrice-beaten club to its first win, a 78-54 breeze past Bensalem A. A. Levittown. Associated press the new team at its first tri-casualty Bridge Grille of Morrisville, 82-44, an opener for its third success in four games.

Zook became the third record-holder for the conference in the space of two weeks. His salvo topped a 39-point effort by Franklin's Mike Faccioli last night. Faccioli had disfranchised Jim Sottile of Kaiser, who missed 37 for his best of the campaign. And there is no guarantee that the circuit's ample delegation of snipers will let Zook rest long with his new standard.

Field Goal Mark Along with the point mark, tall Walt posted a mark in field goals that could have more durability. He disturbed the strings 18 times on field tries.

Levittown went into combat with player-coach Stew Tomkins absent, but got the better of the draw at that. Morrisville had to give up John Krysa third-best league scorer, when that fellow reported that his call to Trenton Junior College duties would keep him out of LBCLAC play henceforth. Without Long John, Morrisville's entry had too many boys in men's jobs.

The Levitts, left in Levittown's care, got at least one field goal from each of their 11 operatives. Six-foot-11 Norm Dayton, a tower under the boards, notched 23 points for honors, while Bill Hughes came up with 16 on his

Bensalem Quint Checks in; Warriors, Falcons at Home

Scholastic basketballers hereabout warm to their trunks tonight when three games are on the books. One team, Bensalem High, is listed for a coming out party against Upper Moreland at Willow Grove, while two other Lower Bucks County League units will move into their second skirmishes. Bristol High is host to Trenton Catholic and Pennsbury entertains Mt. Holly. All three attractions are set up as jayvee-varsity couplets.

LBCL observers will be interested primarily in the Bensalem-UM scrap which carries out the expanding 1-2-3 feud with the Buxmont conference. The Owls, naturally, are an unknown quantity, a element that's always adds to the flavor.

Coach Marlon Van Horn has had nearly two full weeks to arrange his warriors, but even that is considered insufficient for an assignment as imposing as tonight's. He had only two letters, six-foot-four Bob Frantz and six-foot Harvey Crowthorn, to work with.

Jayvee Grads Others on the early candidate list and from among whom Van Horn will select tonight's supporting cast are Norm Lomis, John Perugini, Norm Berger, Frank Harper, Alton Brown and Chris Smith. All had jayvee experience last year.

Frantz, probably the league's tallest performer, was rated as a real comer at the tag end of the last season. As a sophomore, he moved into varsity combat with some uneasiness, but had developed exceptionally by the season's end. If the improvement continues, he may be one of the top twinklers of the LBCL this Winter.

Pennsbury debuts at home and looks for its first win in the same effort. The Falcons got whipped, 54-42, at Doylestown Tuesday night in a disappointing exhibition. Coach Don Henry, who used 11 boys in the game, figures to have a better measure of his talent by now, which makes the Birds a slight favorite to get even. Mike Baldovick, Jim MacMillan and Dave Gerard are likely starters tonight along with yet unnamed support.

The jayvee game at Pennsbury is scheduled for an early 6:45, unlike the other two which have a 7 o'clock post time.

Seeks Second Win Bristol has aspirations of dealing Trenton Catholic out for the first time since the teams have been archnemeses. Chances appear pretty good, too, for the Catholics are beatable and have been beaten once in two outings.

The Warriors move in fresh off their 65-56 win over Ewing and with a starting lineup all set. It includes Dom Sottile, Bobby Loud, Phil Attardo, Dick Crosby and Russ Johnson.

Trenton, which got even with a 61-53 win over St. Rose of Belmar earlier this week, has listed Moe Compton, Frank Kopp, Jim Smith, Ron Juniak and Harold Hall as starters. Richie Picioro is the first - call sub.

Area Hunter Scores In Maine, Returns To Stalk Pa. Game George Moser, a Hulmeville hunter for whom Pennsylvania gunning season offers too little time for his taste, is pursuing his favorite sport this week in the Pocono mountains after having just returned from a two-week sojourn to Maine.

Moser combed Maine woods with Louis Moser, Philadelphia, Alfred Moser, Jr., Hulmeville, and Joseph Casper, Fort Lee, N. J. All four nimrods came back with bucks.

On this week's trip, Moser is accompanying the energetic Hulmeville hunter.

Another area hunting party was successful in Toga County this week. Philip Woyton, Lehigh and Rectz avenues, Hulmeville, bagged a five-point buck and a red fox. Henry Linker, Cornwells Heights, came home with a spike buck.

St. Francis Quint Seeks Area Foes St. Francis Vocational School, Eddington, is seeking basketball games for its 1953-54 schedule, now in formation, with high school freshmen squads, junior high teams and organized boys' clubs or independent teams in this area, school officials announced today.

The St. Francis varsity team, coached by Mike Byron and Elmer Taylor, is composed of boys between the ages of 14 and 16 years. The jayvee club includes boys in the 11 to 13-year-old group.

Byron starred for years in the Philadelphia Industrial League, while Taylor is a former Bensalem High School standout.

Teams interested in arranging jayvee and or varsity games with the Vikings are asked to write to the school or call Byron at Cornwells 584-2.

Tips to Motorists:

10 TESTS TO MAKE BEFORE
YOU BUY ANY 1954 CAR

- 1 DRIVE IT FAST AROUND A CURVE. Do you get any uncomfortable sway or roll? You don't in an AERO WILLYS!
- 2 SIT IN THE DRIVER'S SEAT. Can you see all four fenders—for safer driving and easier parking? You can in an AERO WILLYS!
- 3 ASK THE SALESMAN TO STAND EXACTLY 10 FEET IN FRONT OF THE CAR. Can you see his feet? If not, you're not sitting in an AERO WILLYS!
- 4 INQUIRE WHETHER THE CAR IS MADE THE OLD-FASHIONED WAY. (2 pieces...body dropped on a frame and bolted together) or THE MODERN, ONE-PIECE AEROFRAME CONSTRUCTION (like AERO WILLYS!)
- 5 SEE HOW FAR YOU CAN DRIVE IT ON ONE GALLON OF GAS. Compare that with this report from an independent auto-testing organization after a 90,000-mile test of the AERO WILLYS.
- 6 AND WHILE YOU'RE AT IT, SEE IF THE SALESMAN CAN SHOW YOU PROOF OF OPERATING ECONOMY LIKE THIS (from the same 90,000 mile test).
- 7 SIT IN BOTH THE FRONT AND BACK SEATS. Do you get more than 5 feet of seating width in each one? You do in an AERO WILLYS!
- 8 MAKE SURE IT'S THE SAFEST CAR YOU CAN GET FOR YOURSELF AND YOUR FAMILY. Read how "Motor Trend" Magazine rates 20 leading American cars.
- 9 TEST IT WITH YOUR EYES. DOES IT LOOK LIKE A REALLY NEW CAR? WILL YOU BE PROUD OF IT AS ONE OF THE MOST BEAUTIFUL CARS ON THE ROAD? If not, better look at an AERO WILLYS!
- 10 LOOK AT THE PRICE TAG. And then compare it with AERO WILLYS. For the price of most ordinary cars, you can actually own an AERO WILLYS!

ELIZABETH WOODWARD SAYS:

Accept The Situation And Stop Stewing

When you slip in the last piece of a jigsaw puzzle, it's sort of silly not to accept the picture as finished, isn't it? When you make all the elements of a math problem behave properly, it's ridiculous not to accept the answer as correct.

Yet some of you, given all the facts in a personal equation, refuse to accept the situation as it is. You mix a lot of wishful thinking into the plot, you let your imaginations run riot, you plan devious ways and means to make it seem what it isn't.

Being philosophically resigned to the situation seems too dull?

There ought to be something you can do to alter its complexion?

Well, if a girl with a problem like Judy's would put together its various pieces, she'd come closer to understanding the score. Here's what's bothering Judy.

"DEAR MISS WOODWARD: I've been dating a fellow who is very popular in school. He's an officer in one of the fraternities, while I'm not in a sorority, so you can see what that does. He has all the club dances to go to and since I'm not in a sorority, he doesn't ask me. I don't mind so much because I date other fellows once in a while and he's always dating other girls.

I had a date with him not too long ago, and we both enjoyed it. I know. But since that night he hasn't been speaking much—just "hi". If I talk to him in school everyone wants to know about us and I can't tell them. I absolutely don't know what to say. I can't keep my mind on my school work. I'm now trying to make him jealous by having a boy walk me through the halls and different things to make me be seen with him everywhere. I can't think this is why he's acting as he is. Maybe he has something on his mind. Can you help me?"

It might help to line up the facts as you've given them, perhaps the answer will be obvious to you. First of all he's a very popular boy, a bigshot, with lots of parties to go to. It's his habit to date a variety of girls—you're just one on his list. He's not giving any one girl a chance to think he belongs to her. He dates a girl, forgets her for a while, then dates her again.

So much for him. You like him, you want to date him all the time, you want to be the only girl he dates. You're in a swivel because he's in one of these periods of forgetting about you.

The score? Nobody needs to know anything about you two. You just date occasionally and that needs no explaining. He never was jealous of your other dates before—so why should he care about this boy you're being seen with? He might even think you like him, so he stays away from you so he won't be a nuisance.

Treat him gaily and friendly-like—just as you do other nice boys you like—if you want to stay on the list of girls he dates even occasionally.

Sparkling Eyes Mean Vitality

EYE-DROPS will wash away that tired look and leave your eyes bright and sparkling for a date, says Movie Star Jane Greer.

By HELEN FULLETT

SPARKLING eyes bespeak vitality, good nature and animation. Dull ones tell the world that one is tired or worried. We are learning more and more all the time about the effect that health, or lack of it has on appearance. Therefore, the first beauty rule is to keep fit, eat properly, exercise daily, breathe deeply, get plenty of sleep and keep sweet.

Keep Eyes Sparkling

Women seldom pay as much attention to their eyes as they do to their hair, complexions and figures. They strain them by reading in a dim light. If a woman has been keeping late hours, her tired body gets all the consideration. She also should do something to keep her eyes in condition.

This means bathing them night and morning with warm water, then in cold. If the lids are red, a lotion should be applied with an eye-cup. Any druggist will recommend a soothing lotion that can be used with safety and benefit.

Eyes must get their quota of rest and sleep. Don't forget that they are your most important feature, no matter what the size or color. You can put glamor in them by remembering to smile with your eyes as well as your lips.

There is no vanity so senseless as that of postponing the time of putting on glasses. Eye strain means nerve strain. Nerve strain completely out of form.

When vision is impaired, the lids partially close to bar out light. Let that habit go on long enough and turkey tracks will form. Tissues around the eyes are thin and delicate, subject to wrinkles.

Take care of your eyes. They're the only ones you've got. Be good to them, for the sake of health as well as beauty.

Your Birthday by STELLA

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 11—Born today, the stars have given you the talent for making money—as well as the ability to hang on to it. You might do well to be a little less saving for you should remember that you can't take it with you! Learn how to play a little more and you'll get more happiness out of living. You are inclined to be a chronic "worrier" and must not cross bridges before you come to them.

Artistic and musical, you will probably have talent on some musical instrument. This gift should be developed and you might select a musical career with excellent prospects for professional success. Since you have a talent for speaking in public, you should be a good lecturer, attorney, or even a politician. But you must be allowed to go your own way and initiate campaigns, rather than made to follow the blind lead of others. You would never be a party "wheel-horse" but might develop into a spectacularly successful "independent."

It is important that you select a marriage partner who is temperamentally suited to you, for happiness in marriage is of the utmost importance to one of your temperament. Find someone born under Aries or Leo for the best contentment. You will want a large family so choose a mate who has similar ideas on the subject!

To find what the stars have in store for tomorrow, select your birthday star and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Motorists Warned

Windshield Wiper

Needs Attention

HARRISBURG — Record breaking and prolonged heat of the past summer has baked the life out of rubber in many windshield wiper blades, according to automotive engineers, and motorists today were warned by Dr. Elmer Transeau, State Director of Highway Safety, to check blades for clear, streak free wiping action before winter rains and blizzards arrive.

During recent rains safety engineers have observed an abnormally high number of badly streaked windshields.

"Reduced visibility due to dirty, blurred or streaked windshields can cause accidents," said Transeau. "Most can be prevented by increased vigilance during early, longer hours of darkness and common sense car care."

Firemen Approve Two-Way Radio For Feasterville

The purchase of a two-way radio communication system has been approved by members of the Feasterville Fire Company, according to chief Paul McBride.

The company's directors had previously given approval to the proposal.

The communication set-up, which costs $3000 for purchase and installation, was ordered today, the chief said, and should be in operation within two months.

Although the Feasterville Company is financing the project alone, three other companies have been invited to "hook in" on the system.

The Trevores, Southampton and Richboro fire companies, which have been invited to participate, will meet with McBride at the Feasterville firehouse Thursday at 8 p. m. If the other companies decide to hook in, McBride said, they will only be required to pay individual maintenance costs.

The station, which will be manned by Feasterville firemen, is capable of covering the entire Lower Bucks County area, McBride said. He added that the efficiency of his department will be greatly improved by the purchase.

"Without the two-way setup," McBride said, "when a fire truck is out and we have to contact it, we either have to call the house the truck is at, or the one next door. Of course, if the men hear the sirens, the calls are not necessary—but it's still too much of a chance to take."

The chief also said that two fires seldom occur at the same time, but that the possibility always exists. Radio communication will make contact with the trucks certain, he said.

way until a change is required by the public demands."

P. O. Employee Witness

The first public witness was Joseph Baltz, of the Apple Tree Hill section, who works in the Philadelphia Post Office. He said he uses the Trenton-Philadelphia line and finds it satisfactory, because by taking the Neibauer service the trip is about a half hour longer.

Boards 3 Vehicles

William A. Marnie, of the North Pack section, said he works in Philadelphia and the Neibauer service is unsatisfactory, because he must board three different vehicles and the trip takes three-quarters of an hour longer.

Other Philadelphiaans to testify were Mrs. Anna Kramer, who visits a daughter in the Farmbrook section, and Mrs. Patricia Heineman, who has a sister in the Thornridge section.

Levittowners appearing as public witnesses in support of the application included Mrs. J. W. Sykes, Appletree drive; Mrs. Jerome Murphy, Nesting Rock lane; Mrs. Bernard Murphy, Myrtle lane; Mrs. R. Janson, Elderberry drive; Mrs. M. Bostock, Shelter lane; Mrs. Ethel Quinn, Shelter lane; Mrs. Ethel Wayne, Nickelhill lane; Mrs. Mary Later, Copperbeech lane; Mrs. Victoria Burns, Birch lane; Mrs. Frances Meltzer, Lakeside Drive west, and Mrs. Blanche Nobley, Rose Arbor. Also appearing was Mrs. Charles R. McAdoo, R. D. 2 Langhorne.

Feldman was brought back to the stand for cross-examination after hearing the public witnesses, and Ralph Umsted, counsel for the Neibauer company, questioned him closely on the finances of his corporation.

Umsted solicited from Feldman the fact that deficits in the company were being made up largely by unsecured loans from Feldman and co-stockholder George Feinberg.

Deficit of $69,000

The opposing counsel also brought out that as of Aug. 31, 1953 the total deficit of the Trenton-Philadelphia corp. was $69,562 compared to total assets of $61,615.

"Would you say you were insolvent as of Aug. 31," asked Umsted. Feldman replied:

"As of today, I believe we are solvent, but as of that period we weren't."

By Barbara A. Zauner

Dr. John McEwan, Jr., optometrist, who maintains his offices, as well as his home, at 160 Willow Drive, Levittown, has always favored modern design. Constance, his wife, preferred traditional. It was tough, but he converted her. They had a grand time furnishing their home, once the decision was made.

The McEwans didn't have to get rid of a thing when they moved to Levittown. They had lived in a furnished apartment while Jack attended the Pennsylvania College of Optometry in Philadelphia. Their own furniture consisted of one alarm clock and one portable radio, all they'd needed then.

With a brand new practice set up after graduation in 1952 and their first real home, besides, their decor was not something to choose casually. It was the stuff of which dreams were made and they had plenty of time to make them.

Sought Special Table

From Levittown to Philadelphia to New York and back again Connie and Jack revolved. They didn't buy anything in New York, but brought back plenty of ideas. One thing Jack was set on was a marble-topped cocktail table. The one they wanted had to be about six feet long with black iron legs. Off white in color, it is a beautiful thing, well worth the months they searched for it.

Silk shantung draperies for the living room and den-reception room were the first item to be purchased. From the cafe-au-lait background and the starlike black, brown and gold print, they blended their color scheme. From the comfortable chaise longue simulated leather occasional chairs in the reception room, Dr. McEwan's patients view a living room which pleases their eyes before they are treated.

The cocktail table is placed before a handsome hide-o-bed. Centered on the wall above is the Howard Miller electric clock, a fascinating modern affair with a brass skeleton center extending to large black balls which represent the numbers. Angularly placed near the sliding door is a spacious forest green chair. The blonde legs travel from the wide arm back rest, contour shaped, past the luxuriously upholstered seat to the floor.

Planter Lamp

Another comfortable chaise longue, a beautiful wrought iron standing planter lamp spilling philodendron lavishly and a beige carpet fulfill the promise the McEwans made to themselves. Though they have no children, an added attraction are the baby pictures, of the youngest of Connie's three sisters.

The McEwans have switched master bedrooms. The original one is the office, their's next to the bath. Wide striped green and white curtains adorn the windows. A solid forest green bedspread with a dust ruffle of the curtain material complements the room. The modern suite is a Russell Wright design in light sycamore wood.

Jack chose to be an optometrist because a friend of his in the service who shared his own enthusiasm. He chose his wife when he met her at a Brethren School, Bridgewater College, Bridgewater, Va. When he had completed two years and was ready to transfer to Philadelphia and she received her bachelor's degree in 1948, they were married. Connie wound up with three majors in education, commerce and biology. Her commercial background is the only one she has used, however. She is a secretary for S.K.F., ball bearing manufacturers in Philadelphia.

The McEwans were all set to go to Virginia to start Jack's first practice. They figured that was an ideal spot, being between two sets of parents. Then they saw the Levittown ads.

They enjoy the theater and believe neither Philadelphia nor New York is too far away for a worthwhile cause. Jack is on the board of directors of the L.C.A. and a member of its health and safety committee.

PLANS FINANCIAL CANVASS

Bristol Presbyterians Begin Study Of Need For Additional Facilities

Members of the Bristol Presbyterian Church have voted to explore the possibilities of building a new church and of remodeling their present structure as an education building.

According to the Rev. Edward G. Yeomans, pastor, the church building in use now was originally erected for Sunday School purposes. The congregation, Rev. Yeomans said, is contemplating converting the structure to its original purpose. He stressed that the building program is "very much in the embryonic stage," but added that the group plans to build in the near future.

Delhaas Parent-Teachers Association members last night suggested publication of a monthly bulletin, establishment of a catalogued picture file, and establishment of a canteen for use of pupils during leisure time.

Following the December meeting in the school library, 100 members assembled in the various class rooms at different grade levels for discussions of "How to Meet the Needs of Delhaas Pupils."

A report of the group discussions was presented to the main body by parent reporters. The groups believed the P. T. A. should sponsor

Form Committee To Aid Vet Jobs

Twenty-five representatives of industry, labor, government agencies, veterans groups and other community organizations, meeting at Flannery's Restaurant, Pottsville, formed a Veterans Employment Committee for Lower Bucks County. It will be affiliated with the Pennsylvania State Employment Service.

Alfred E. Lewis, personnel director of the Hunter Manufacturing Corp., was elected chairman. Francis L. Mathews, manager of the Bristol office of the Pennsylvania State Employment Service, was named secretary. The group also adopted a plan of operation.

"Job for Individual"

"The object of this committee is to give community support to the Employment Service in its efforts to provide employment for veterans, particularly those who are handicapped," Lewis said. "Physical handicaps are not always job handicaps. Our problem is to find the job the individual can perform."

George E. Kraemer, district veterans employment representative, who assisted in setting up the local committee, spoke on the experiences in other areas where counseling panels, composed of representatives of industry, were assisting the Employment Service in placing handicapped veterans and others.

Harry G. McNabb, counselor for the State Bureau of Rehabilitation, also outlined the services of that agency.

Committee Chairman

At the close of the meeting Lewis announced the appointment of the following committee chairman: Membership, Edward K. Walters, personnel manager, Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing Company; speakers committee, Mathews; publicity, J. Morton Cameron, personnel director, Rohm and Haas Company. Other committee assignments will be announced later.

Organizations in attendance included the American Legion; bureau of apprenticeship, Lower Bucks County Council of the C. I. O.; Kaiser Metal Products, Inc.; Thomas L. Leedom Company; Manhattan Soap Company; Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Company; Paterson Parchment Paper Company; Robertson Manufacturing Corporation; Seaboard Container Corporation; Superior Zinc Corporation; Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Victor Chemical Works.

Under the chairmanship of George F. Kemmerer, Sr., the church extension committee will conduct a financial canvass of the area early in March, to raise funds for the project. Until then, the pastor said, the committee, which has been functioning for the past six years, will study the situation and make recommendations from its findings.

The need for additional facilities has been precipitated by the continual growth of both the church and church school membership, Rev. Yeomans said. The church is located at 225 Radcliffe street, Bristol.

Bensalem Twp. Eyes Law To Ban Small Fire Arms

May Take Action, Like Bristol Twp., Against Air Guns

Bensalem Township may soon follow the action of Bristol Township in passing an ordinance restricting the use of air guns and .22-calibre rifles by youths under 18 years of age, as many residents today urged its adoption.

William White, chairman of the Township Board of Supervisors, recently announced that the board would take up the problem at its next meeting, Dec. 16 or 17. At that time a full report will be given on the number of complaints made by township residents to the police department.

The recent passage of the ordinance by Bristol Township stemmed from the shooting of a 12-year-old Levittown boy. On Sunday Patrolman Englebert Smith, of the Bensalem police, reported a .22-calibre bullet lodged in a wall in an Eddington home and narrowly missed two women.

Beckes Approves

In approving such an ordinance, Edgar Beckes, pharmacist, of Cornwells Heights, said:

"Although I believe that a boy should be taught to use a gun under proper supervision, I do not approve of indiscriminate use of weapons such as .22 rifles and air guns. I would give my approval to the adoption of an ordinance that would curtail the dangerous elements involved when youngsters handle a gun."

The Rev. Wayne A. Dockhorn, of the Bensalem Methodist Church, Hulmeville road, agreed with the stand that Bristol Township made in passing the firearms ordinance.

Not Toys, Minister Says

"I'm certainly in favor of such an ordinance," Mr. Dockhorn declared. "I cannot see why parents make gifts such as rifles and air guns when there are so many more useful gifts available. I can see no useful purpose in boys handling such dangerous weapons, they are certainly not toys."

A slightly different stand was expressed by Joseph Hafert, Bensalem Township garage owner, who said he could remember when he was a boy of eleven owning a small calibre rifle.

"At that time I can remember going out on a shoot with my dad, who advised me on the best way to handle the weapon," Hafert stated. "As long as there is an older person around to supervise I can see no harm in it. But when kids become careless and destroy property then I suppose its time to put your foot down."

Backed By Churchman

When asked whether he would favor the adoption of an ordinance prohibiting youths under 18 years of age to handle rifles, Hafert said:

"Yes, I believe that it would be a wise move for the supervisors if they did adopt such a rule, providing it does not rule out the use of guns entirely."

The Rev. Donald E. May, of the Eddington Presbyterian Church, Bristol Pike and Park avenue, Eddington, said:

"I would vote approvingly on such an ordinance. It would make the community a safer place and I think it should be well worth instituting by the township supervisors."

Three New Fans

THESE THREE STUDENTS at Bristol High School and the junior and senior class sponsor Miss Marlon E. Peck, went to New York recently to attend a session of United Nations, to visit LaGuardia Field, and also to stop in at Radio City. They managed to pack all this in their one-day trip, and while they were at it, they were also introduced to Terry Moore and Bob Wagner, Hollywood stars. The trio immediately joined the "Terry and Bob" fan club, and proudly show their autographs to their sponsor. The three are (from left to right): Betty Jane Hall, 225 Roosevelt street; Phoebe Scheffey, 320 Harrison street, and Jean Stiller, 508 Bath street, all of Bristol.

How To Decorate Your Tree

Check Mail Listings, Fergusonville Warned

Roy Hansen president of the Fergusonville Community Center and Civic Association last night reminded members of the association to notify publishers and correspondents of a change of address.

He told those present at a meeting of the association at the center that street numbers and street name changes for Fergusonville will go into effect about Jan. 15.

Henry Frederick, entertainment committee chairman, announced plans for the annual children's Christmas party at the center Sunday, Dec. 20.

Gifts For Children

All Fergusonville children under 12 are invited to attend. Fredericks announced that Horace P. Schmidt will play Santa Claus and Thomas Mason will arrange for music. Gifts will be distributed to the children. Members of the entertainment committee will meet at the center on Thursday, Dec. 17, to wrap gifts and decorate the building. Fredericks thanked all members of the committee who helped raise money for the party.

Hansen thanked Frank Herbert and his committee for moving the school bus shelter from Maple avenue and Pine road to Ritter avenue.

Morrell To Speak

George Quinn improvement committee chairman, reported on the Dec. 9 meeting of the township commissioners. He announced that Harry E. Morrell, newly elected commissioner, will speak at the January or February meeting of the association.

New Steel chairs, purchased by the association, were used for the first time last night. They replace backless wooden benches.

A motion was passed to purchase new steel lockers for the center, with the approval of the trustees.

Freas Re-Elected Head of Marine Rescue Units Here

The Inter-State Marine Association, meeting last night at Goodwill Company fire station, Bristol, re-elected Calvin Freas, of Cornwells Fire Co. 1, as president.

Named vice-president was Randall Buckley, of the Torresdale Rescue Squad. Edward Turneson, of the Bucks County Rescue Squad, was elected secretary; Harry Eckert, Jr., of the same squad, treasurer. Named as chief of the Marine Association was Robert Porter, also of Bucks County Rescue Squad.

Plans were made for the group's first annual banquet, to be held in March. Porter was appointed banquet chairman.

There were no drownings or other incidents in the past month requiring the services of the Marine Association, it was reported. The next meeting will be held Jan. 14 at Newportville Fire Co. 1.

SKID ROW EDIT

SUPPORTS SICK-ROOM NEEDS

Legion Auxiliaries To Start Drive For Magazine Subscribers Monday

The eighth annual magazine subscription campaign, sponsored by American Legion Auxiliaries of Bucks and Montgomery Counties, will start next Monday.

Mrs. Ella McIntyre, president of Newtown unit, says commissions derived this year will be put toward purchase of additional sick-room equipment.

As a result of previous campaigns the auxiliaries have been able to purchase and maintain sick-room and life-saving equipment, which is available for temporary use by any resident of the two counties without charge. The equipment has been in almost constant demand and has given valuable and timely service throughout the community. The auxiliary believes the equipment it proposes to purchase is a much-needed addition to that already available.

Only accredited representatives of publishers bearing a letter of introduction and identification from the auxiliary and signed by Mrs. Ella McIntyre will call on residents to explain the plan in detail. Donations are not to be solicited or accepted.

The present equipment of the auxiliaries is housed at Langhorne and Willow Grove when not in use. Anyone desiring the use of it may call Mrs. McIntyre.

People Places and Things

By CAROL GABLER

It's Confidence That Counts:

A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Enslen Tuesday at the Bristol General Hospital.

Things like babies being born happens at the hospital almost every day, but this case was a little different: Mrs. Enslen, who lives in Wilmington, Del., traveled 54 miles just to have her baby here.

Why? It seems that the couple is originally from Philadelphia, and so is Dr. William Morgan of the hospital's staff. Mrs. Enslen said she has so much confidence in Dr. Morgan—who delivered her first two children—that he just had to take care of her for her third.

Take a Load off Your Feet:

If you're totally exhausted after all that Christmas shopping, doctors suggest that one good way to relax after a shopping excursion is to take a long, hot bath.

And it can be a luxurious bath, too, without spending money for fancy bath salts or the like. A half-pound of baking soda in the tub will not only relax you, but help those aching feet. Especially when you feel all "washed out" . . . .

It Works Every Time:

Observing the antics of area teenagers we've just about decided that an excellent way to keep young is to associate with young people. And just about the fastest way to get old in a hurry is to try keeping up with them.

A Spotty Situation:

Donna Ellis, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ellis, 43 Popular lane, Levittown, was a mighty disappointed young miss the other day.

The youngster, a pupil at the Fallington elementary school, was one of the lucky children chosen to participate in the dedication of the new wing of the school Wednesday.

She was only scheduled to say one or two lines at the ceremony, and then to present a scroll to be put in the cornerstone of the building. And she practiced that one line conscientiously.

But the day before the presentation ceremonies, Donna did something very rash: she "contacted" chicken pox, so another youngster Kathryn James, who was declared in perfect physical condition, replaced her. And six-grader Gayle MacSherry made this announcement at the rather solemn ceremonies: "Donna Ellis is not here today because she has the chicken-pox."

A Loaf of Bread—and How!

We've noticed that a great many restaurants in the area sell "hooegs." In fact, we've taken to eating them almost every day. We couldn't help wondering, though, what the origin of the word "hooeg" is! Could some reader please come along and tell us its derivation.

As far as we can tell, its "derivation" consists of everything from a huge bun with lettuce, tomato, salami, peppers, ham and cheese, to onions. The conglomeration—if its size doesn't scare you off—is quite delectable.

Here 'n' There:

The TB-Cancer mobile unit will be in Fairless Hills Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday next week. At one time, Lawndale, Pa. was a part of Tullytown Borough.
